CHAMPAGNE

Has recently made an enormous advance in public and professional favour. Its value, we are told, as a medicine, is year after year more largely acknowledged by the Faculty. As a stimulant it acts more immediately, and more harmlessly than Brandy, and the stomach will often retain it at periods of extreme irritability, when no other wine could be endured. Besides these properties, it has other characteristics, rendering it so widely popular, that the aggregate produce now reaches upon an average 52,000,000 (fifty-two millions) gallons." The Bombay Gazette

FRIDAY, APRIL 23, 1869.

It is not satisfactory to be told, as we are by telegraph, that the Franco-Belgian question is still unsettled. Its existence has also been concurrent with an unusual flitting to and fro of diplomatic personages, rumours that the French party in Italy is steadily gaining ground, and that some intrigue is afoot to sever the friendship between Italy and Germany. At the same time those suspicious and delusive declarations that the active French army has been reduced in number have been circulated with alarming rapidity, and those curious assurances that "all is peace," which do so much to create alarm, have not been wanting. But that there should be a Franco-Belgian question at all remains the most significant fact. The locomotive tendencies of diplomatists, the gossip about triple alliances, even the fuss anent the French army, are so much matter of course, that they would in themselves attract little attention. The difference between France and Belgium, however, is removed from the region of political speculation, into that of actual fact, and it reveals afresh one of the standing menaces to peace. We are told, indeed, by the apologists of France that there is no danger, that the French Government never dreamed of questioning the competence of the Belgian Parliament to veto the railway contract, and that it only objected to the manner in which the veto was proposed and carried. To our minds this statement of the case renders the pretensions of the French Emperor still more alarming; because it is not usual, nor is it fitting for serious Governments to raise questions of manner. The field of overt action furnishes a sufficiently ample range of pretexts; its extension will be limitless if that of manner is to be annexed. But, in truth, the talk about the manner in which the Belgian Parliament defended itself from a covert assualt on the national independence is a mere pretext to avoid the awkwardness of appearing to meddle directly in the domestic concerns of a sovereign state. What the French Government resents is the independence of Belgium; no sophistry can disguise that fact. A little vigorous neutral state disputed the will of France, and such audacity was not to be borne. Whether the plea put forward to justify interference be act or manner, the substantial root of the quarrel is the bold refusal of Belgium to be a French satellite. It is unfortunate that the Belgian Government did not appeal to Europe and refuse to enter on any negotiation springing out of the astute attempt to secure a strategic line by means of an innocent-looking railway amalgamation. Part of the offence is that the bill, which frustrated the contract, was "hurried" through the Parliament after an official appeal to Belgian "patriotism!" So that the French are offended at an effective mode of legislation suited to a pressing emergency, and propose by implication to make patriotism in Belgium penal! The incident ought to teach an useful lesson to all the Governments of Europe, especially to those states where freedom flourishes. France will not complain of the manner in which the British or American Parliament sanctions measures or rejects them; but Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Portugal may each and all incur Imperial displeasure.

It is a necessity of his existence that the French Emperor should have a "question" on hand. Before his subjects he must always stand in the light of a Jupiter, directing and controlling Europe. The success of Prussia rankles in the French mind; to counteract the enemy, to repress the wrath excited by the spectacle of another nation winning victories, and to soothe feelings wounded by the rapid growth of a great controlling state in Central Europe, the Emperor must gain or appear to gain advantages somewhere. If he cannot occupy Berlin he must threaten Brussels, if he cannot secretly buy Luxembourg he must insist on its neutralization or war; if he was not able to prevent the unity of Italy, the aim of his Austrian war, he can at least hold Rome—and hold it, not of course on a plea corresponding with the truth, that it exerts a military pressure on the Italian monarchy and secures an access to French legions from the sea—but on the plea that he is serving the interests of religion. In the present dispute he also, in the eyes of his subjects, is braving Prussia, naturally enough believed to be solicitous for Belgian independence. The indirect hostility to Prussia cannot be less gratifying to the ordinary Frenchman than the bullying of Belgium, which refuses to be cut up into departments. It is the existence of these domineering pretensions in France which makes the Belgian quarrel a source of anxiety. Even if war is avoided, as it probably will be, still to pacify the French, Napoleon III. must appear to be the dictator of the settlement; and if war is avoided the incident will add one more to the long list of proofs, that there is no change in the character of the French nation, and that to gratify her stupendous vanity she is always ready to plunge Europe into confusion.

The judicious intervention of the Viceroy in our Municipal difficulties has entailed more work on the Legislative Council. By agreeing to lend us the Fifteen Lakhs which we have been brought to require Lord Mayo has rendered a fresh Loan Bill necessary, and consequently the Legislative Council is called upon to pass a short Act "to empower the Corporation of the Justices of Bombay to raise a loan for temporary purposes"— the proper words would be to pay their debts and keep the wolf from the door. The Bill, which will be found elsewhere, simply provides for the repayment of the Government loan, principal and interest, in ten years. Every month the Municipal Commissioner is to lodge in Her Majesty's Treasury Rs. 12,500, and if he fail to make the payment the Controller—poor man!—is to report the fact within forty-eight hours to the Chief Secretary of the Government, who is thereupon to empower any Government officer to detain any monies due to the Corporation, that he may have under his hands, and, if so ordered, pay them into the Treasury. It is on these conditions that the Justices will obtain the loan from the Supreme Government. When and where will the Council meet to perform a piece of work, which we are sure, the Municipal Commissioner longs to see finally accomplished? The money is urgently needed, but if it is to be had at an early day, there must be an early meeting of the Council. As, however, H. E. the Governor has just gone to Mahableshwur, unless the Council run after him, we cannot see how the thing is to be done.

Our contemporary, discoursing yesterday on Municipal affairs, falls into the error of supposing that we had put forward, as our own, a plan for a Municipal constitution. We did nothing of the sort. We merely described alternative schemes, dictated, as appears to us, by the facts. The plan we prefer is that which would place the whole Municipal affairs of this island under the charge of a Department of the Bombay Government, because we believe it approximates more closely than any other to those conditions of our rule in India from which we run great risk of departing. We have no love for paper constitutions or sham representative government anywhere, and we consider them absolutely fatal to the continuance of British sway in India. The present system, the offspring of deference for principles and doctrines inapplicable to India, is one of the greatest bungles ever devised by the wit of man.

Is it not time that the Bombay Boating Club should be preparing to retain the laurels won last year at Poona? Is anything being done towards that end? There must be boating men of the right stuff in Bombay, if they would only show and exert themselves. It is all the more necessary because Bombay cannot expect to lick Poona again without a severe contest. Not only will the Bombayites meet their old opponents, but a fresh importation of British officers full of fight and bottom. The young fellows of Bombay—unless they wish to lose their reputation for high spirit—must come to the fore. We are glad to hear that Bombay possesses a facsimile of the Club's four-oar, and that two new and complete Rob Roy canoes are on the way out. But the tools are of little use without the men. We hope soon to hear a good account of the activity of our side.

One of our Umballa letters mentioned the startling effect produced at the great review there by the simultaneous playing of God Save the Queen by all the bands present—an effect which the natives probably enjoyed more than the Europeans. We imagine it was this that suggested the following order which has just been passed by the Commander-in-Chief in India :—"On all occasions when troops march past in brigade, and it is found impracticable to mass the bands of the regiment composing it, one band will be selected (which, as a general rule, should be that of the leading regiment) to play the whole brigade past the saluting point."

Referring to the Four Per Cent Loan, the "Englishman" of last Monday says—"We hear that the new loan has been allotted to about two hundred and forty applicants, of whom 130 are Europeans and 110 natives, and that the applications from both classes were nearly equal in amount. Rather above one-fourth of the whole loan has been allotted to native applicants, and of the amount allotted above Rs. 90, the proportion taken by natives is rather more than one-eighth. The average rate at which the whole loan has been taken up is Rs. 90-2¾ annas."

From Madras we learn that the Venerable Archdeacon T. Dealtry goes home this month and will be succeeded in office by the Rev. Mr. Gorton. The Rev. Dr. Sayers, it is expected, will be appointed Garrison Chaplain of Fort St. George.

In an order of the Commander-in-Chief in India commanding officers are informed that the maintenance of a canteen on the line of march is not an optional measure with them, but that a canteen must always be kept up when possible.

Under instructions from the Government of India, it is intimated by the Commander-in-Chief in India that "all claims of officers to command pay for services on passage and prior of arrival in India must be sent to the War Office for sanction, before they can be charged for by regimental pay-masters and officers commanding regiments and batteries of Royal Artillery."

The Commander-in-Chief in India has directed that "officers commanding detachments of native troops proceeding by rail are invariably to caution their men against the danger of attempting to outside carriages in motion. The Commander-in-Chief directs that any infringement of this order be severely dealt with by commanding officers, who will be held responsible for its strict enforcement."

An instance having occurred in which a soldier embarked for England with his regiment, leaving his son in the Roman Catholic Orphanage, Mussoorie, the Commander-in-Chief has directed that "officers commanding corps about to quit India shall satisfy themselves that children of the men in those institutions are withdrawn in sufficient time to admit of their embarkation with their parents, as subsistence allowance will not be continued after departure of the parents from India."

Colonel C. G. Macdonald, Commanding the 27th Native Infantry, and who has been promoted to a Brigadier General, is to get the command of the Trichinopoly Division in succession to General Duke. It is questionable, remarks the "Madras Mail," if this appointment is not premature as the India Office sanction of the new arrangements for the command of the Southern Division has not yet arrived, and there is now a Brigadier General in excess of the establishment. General Duke was to bid farewell to Trichinopoly last Monday. He leaves amid the regrets of all classes of the community, for his hospitality and unfailing courtesy have won the regard of every one. He now retires after nearly fifty-one years' service in India. Out of respect for a senior officer's feelings, the Madras Commander-in-Chief postponed his visit to Trichinopoly early in the year, and will not inspect that station until later in the year.

The "South of India Observer" is happy to report that the fish introduced to the Ootacamund lake by Dr. Day, are not defunct. Fish have lately been seen in the lake from six to eight inches in length, and as the only original inhabitants of our lake waters were minnows of most diminutive proportions, and those seen by our contemporary's informant were decent-sized fish, it is concluded that the latter are the product of Dr. Day's experiment.

Alluding to the assertion of "Indian Public Opinion" that Sir Richard Temple, in becoming Finance Minister, undertook "duties for which the almost unanimous opinion of his colleagues in the Council, as well as of the public, proclaims him to be unfit," the "Madras Mail" remarks—"We do not know what the 'almost unanimous opinion' of the Council may be, but it is certainly not the almost unanimous opinion of the public in these parts that Sir R. Temple is unfit for the duties of Finance Minister. His budget has been more favourably received than any budget of the late years, and we think Sir Richard is to be particularly commended for resisting the unreasonable demands of his military colleagues on account of military works. To spend money recklessly on Sir William Mansfield's hobbies would infallibly be to throw a good deal of it away. Until our railway system is complete, and our sanitary authorities are a little more unanimous, new military works should be undertaken with extreme caution."

A letter from Shillong, dated the 6th April, says—"We have lately returned to the station from the Looshai expedition which has terminated, at least for this season, on account of the heavy rains, but which will probably be spoken of again in November next, when, it is rumoured, the refractory hillmen intend to give us a little more trouble. Their Rajah, who is said to have got about 20,000 men, amongst whom there are small bodies tolerably well disciplined, will show his fighting teeth. You may have already heard that the mother of another hill chief, who is now dead, belonging to the clan, has entered into a treaty with the British Government. The Major General commanding the frontier districts will shortly proceed on an inspection tour. The office of the Executive Engineer is to be abolished, or rather transferred to Gowalparrah. The weather is pretty fine, and the general health of the station is good."

THE FOUNDERING OF THE "ATALANTA."

The following is Captain Green's statement describing the loss of his ship :—"The Atalanta sailed from Bombay for Bushire on Sunday, April 18, 1869. At 3-30 P.M., Mr. Jones, pilot, left the vessel. At 4-30, tacked to northward. About 5-30, tacked to southward and westward. At 6 P.M., carpenter reported 16 inches in well. Told Mr. Page, chief officer, to pump her out at 8 P.M., and to put her about if she broke off to south-west as I wished to lie down having bruised my ribs by falling down the lazerette hatch and felt very sore. Was called suddenly by Mr. Page, at what particular hour did not notice. Ran up on deck. Mr. Page told me there were 3 feet in her, and that water was coming in fast in the fore-peak. I kept the ship away at once, and called the carpenter to sound the well, after she was eased off. He showed me the rod and line about 4 or 4½ feet. I told the mate (the pumps being kept going all the time) to lower the port quarter-boat. I also told the serang to take the lashing off the long-boat. I again asked Mr. Page what water was in the well? He said he could not exactly tell, but he believed about 8 feet. He then lowered the port-boat with one woman, a Chinese boy, and I believe, somebody else. I made all sail, and steered from east north east to east as well as I could, to shoal the water. At about 1-30 or 2 A.M. the serang got the long-boat in the tackles, some men still pumping. The fore tackle was carried away and the bow came down on deck with a thump. I told the gunner, when the long-boat was out, to put the women and children in first, but the boat was no sooner over the side, than serang and lascars made a rush, and the boat went over on one side, swamped and went astern. The lascars then rushed for the cutter, and nearly swamped her. I had been below, forward, and set the carpenter to work to jam oakum in the open places, for I also found the water over the coals in the lower deck afterhatch. About 3-30 A.M. the gunner told me that there were 3 feet above the 'tween decks. After that I sung out to let go the anchor, as the vessel was in 6 fathoms water, intending to get all hands, and as many women as I could, into the rigging, but no one would listen, in fact all control was at an end. The seecunnies then told me that they were going in the only boat left,

DEPARTURE OF THE GOVERNOR FOR MAHABULESHWUR.

FALSE CHARGE OF PERJURY.

In the Fort Police Court on Wednesday, before Mr. Connon, a charge was heard at the instance of Ramkisson Mundoo against three merchants, named Kassiram Shunker, Mootiram Hurjee, and Nundlall Mohunlall—the first two for giving false evidence in a judicial [illegible], and the other with abetting the same. Dr. Barton appeared for the complainant, and Mr. McCulloch for the defendants; and after hearing the complainant the Magistrate dismissed the case. The defendant I had been in custody a whole night under a warrant granted by His Worship on a sworn information by the complainant that they intended to leave Bombay. There had been no proof of such intention, and the Magistrate awarded Rs. 50 of costs to the defendants, and expressed his regret that they had not applied to him that night, for at any hour he would have granted them liberty. Dr. Barton gave his client a gentle rebuke for making such a statement in his information, and stated he would not have proceeded with the case, in fact would never have taken it up had he known it was so bad. Counsel then left, and the defendants made a strong appeal to the Court in their vernacular tongue, in a thoroughly dramatic style, and in tones rarely heard at the Court. They bewailed the loss of the good name they had gained in Bombay in the course of the last half century, and implored the Court to grant them some better solatium for their wounded feelings and reputation than was granted by an award of Rs. 50. The Magistrate explained to them that he was very sorry they had been apprehended. The warrant had been granted on a sworn information which he now believed to have been entirely false and malicious. According to English customs and appreciation there was no disgrace to a man in being taken up on a false charge. They had their remedy against a man who did what was wrong if they chose to take it, but it was not in his power to give them any further redress. He was sorry they had been kept in prison all night, and if they had applied to him at any hour he would have released them, on reasonable bail.

JUDGE MOROBA CANOBA.

Yesterday, in the Court of the Fourth Judge of the Small Cause Court, Rao Bahadoor Moroba Canoba, Bhima Luxamon and another sued Cushaba Jeewa to recover a debt of Rs. 20. The defendant made a statement explaining his plea. Mr. Moroba—"I can see from your face that you have been drinking; and I daresay that you are drunk." Defendant—"I have not drunk anything. I am quite sober, sir." Mr. Moroba (to a bailiff)—"Go and smell this man's face—no, his mouth." The bailiff tried to do so. Mr. Moroba—"Let him open his mouth and breathe." Bailiff (to defendant)—"Open your mouth this way (showing) and breathe out. Take care, don't bite my nose." Defendant did as he was told. Bailiff (nodding affirmatively)—"I think there is some smell of liquor." Defendant denied that he had drunk anything. Mr. Moroba (to another bailiff)—"You go and smell this man's mouth, and tell me whether he is sober or drunk." Bailiff did so, and said—"I can't smell anything." Mr. Moroba—"Go near and smell his mouth. He won't bite you! don't be afraid, and do according to my orders." The bailiff tried again and said he could smell nothing. Mr. Moroba (to a third bailiff)—"Hear, you go and smell his mouth. Tell the defendant to keep his mouth open." Bailiff—"I don't perceive a smell of any kind." Mr. Moroba (to defendant)—"If you are not drunk now you must have been drunk last night. I can see that from your face." The case then proceeded.

To one of the parties in the suit Mr. Moroba made a remark, which the man did not seem to understand. The interpreter interposed and tried to explain. Mr. Moroba (to the interpreter)—"I am more intelligent than you, Shreedhur." The interpreter nodded affirmatively.

Mr. Moroba told a bailiff to stop the noise in the Court, telling the people he would fine any persons who talked together. The bailiff interpreted the order. Mr. Moroba to the bailiff—"Come here, sir, why don't you do it in an impressive manner? I don't understand why these bailiffs are so sympathising with these people. I think it is because they are their friends. They have more sympathy with the people than with the Court."

DISPUTE REGARDING A EUROPEAN ASSISTANT'S ENGAGEMENT.

Yesterday judgment was given in the High Court by the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Westropp in an appeal by the firm of Messrs. Harbord & Co., Bombay, against a decision given by Sir Charles Sargent in a suit brought against them by Mr. R. B. Hobbs. In the original suit a sum of about Rs. 30,000, the plaintiff's salary till the end of the period of his engagement, was claimed as damages in consequence of the defendants having wrongfully dismissed the plaintiff while under an engagement in their office in Bombay. The grounds of action were—that plaintiff was engaged by Mr. Wilkinson on behalf of the firm in Liverpool in June 1867, that he proceeded immediately to Bombay and entered the service of the defendants, and that he continued therein till about the end of January 1868, when he was wrongfully dismissed before the expiry of the five years. Besides plaintiff's fixed salary it was provided by written agreements (which were admitted by the defendants) that if the expenses of residence and living in Bombay should be more than double those in England the surplus should be paid by the defendants, and that plaintiff's passage home within three months of the expiry of his engagement should also be paid. The chief facts of the case were that the defendant Harbord had fallen from his horse in January 1868, and that during his recovery plaintiff had used a power of attorney formerly made out for his use. After some dispute about this, on Mr. Harbord's return to the office, the plaintiff was dismissed. A "truce," however, was arranged, the power given up, and the plaintiff returned to the office—the rights of dismissal being waived till the arrival of Mr. Wilkinson in Bombay. The parties who had previously to the accident lived together on amicable terms, were now living together in the Fort, but in the beginning of February Mr. Harbord discovered that plaintiff had sent a telegram to Mr. Wilkinson, (one of the partners of the firm) reporting the accident and stating that his mind was affected, and discovered also that plaintiff had neglected to give him a telegram previously received in the office—but which, plaintiff alleged, he had not received.

A lengthy hearing took place before Sir Charles Sargent, and His Lordship found for the plaintiff and referred to the Commissioner for taking Accounts to take the accounts between parties till 11th February 1868,—till the time at which they ceased to live together—and decreed that the defendant pay the sum of Rs. 5,000 to the plaintiff, subject to such deduction as might result from the [illegible] and in the event with the expense of [illegible] Bombay for England—the same in writing to the defendant, of plaintiff electing [illegible] on which he purposes to leave, and defendants within a reasonable time to provide a first class passage in a P. & O. Co.'s steamer on that day via Southampton, or pay the costs—defendants to pay the costs of this suit.

An appeal was taken against this judgment, and Messrs. White and Marriott (instructed by Mr. Manisty) appeared for the appellants, whilst Messrs. Pigot and Dunbar (instructed by Messrs. Hearn, Cleveland and Peile) for Mr. Hobbs.

The Chief Justice delivered the judgment of the Court yesterday morning, and in doing so referred at length to the evidence, and held that the dismissal had not been justifiable. Plaintiff had been more than a yearly servant and ought to have a better position than such, and therefore the Court could not hold that he was liable to dismissal for using the power of attorney. There had not been moral misconduct or wilful disobedience in using it, for he might have reasonably believed that he was justified in doing so. And no doubt under the circumstances he might have honestly thought it was his duty to keep it. He owed a duty to the absent partner as well as to Mr. Harbord, and in the position of responsibility he held, his disobeying the order to return the power of attorney could not be considered sufficient reason for dismissal. No improper motive had been shown against the plaintiff, and though some of his conduct could not be approved of, it only amounted to errors of judgment,—the sending of the telegram to Mr. Wilkinson being a very grave one. That was injudicious, certainly was not necessary at the time, and contained a statement which the facts did not support; but something more was necessary to constitute what would justify the defendant in putting an end to the contract with the plaintiff. Looking to the whole case, whether they took it in whole or in part, the Court were of opinion that there was not ground for the dismissal and that the decree appealed against must be confirmed: and they expressed a hope that the gentlemen in the case would now be reconciled to each other.

The decree was therefore confirmed with costs.

DAVE CARSON'S ENTERTAINM[illegible]ENT.

On Wednesday night the comedy "Naval [illegible]ments" was repeated at the theatre and perfor[illegible] Engage- a style even better than on the previous occasion. [illegible]ed in General was as hearty as ever, and the Lieutenant [illegible]e frank and rollicking as on his last appearance in public. Mrs. Pontifex, too, was as smart and candid, Miss Mary Mortimer was as neat and girlish, and both even more merry and charming than when last they exchanged their lovers in the cause of peace. Of course Short and Dennis followed in the march of improvement, and so the little comedy passed along amid smiles and applause at every change. The next piece was "The European Vagrant"—described as "new and original, local and political, musical and comical." The original Dave appeared in this, and seemed in fact "to the manner born." We don't intend any reflection, none in the least, and we hope he is pachydermatous enough to stand a comparison—as thick-skinned even as he seems to think the Bombay European police must be. But really he acted to the life, and should any of his audience get into a way of winking to loafers and asking for box tickets to the theatre, Dave Carson must be blamed for the hallucination. He introduced hits with his usual facility and felicity and gave several telling songs which were heartily received and will doubtless tend to the popularity of this unpopular character. We must, however, protest against his representation of European policemen. It is simply absurd and quite unworthy of a place along with the capital acting in the rest of the piece. The entertainment concluded with "To Oblige Benson," in which the characters were well supported and created an immense amount of mirth. We observe that on Saturday that interesting boy "Aladdin" is to make his appearance, and as, we believe, a deal of care has been expended on the preparation of the piece, and as some of the interesting inhabitants of Bombay [illegible] be represented in it, doubtless it will [illegible] amusing piece.

If the Municipal Commissioner shall neglect to make such payment as aforesaid, the Controller of Municipal Accounts shall, within forty-eight hours, report the fact to the Chief Secretary to Government, who shall have power to direct, until further orders, any Government Officer to detain in his hands any moneys due to or accruing for the benefit of the Corporation of the Justices of the Peace for the City of Bombay that he may then or thereafter have in his custody or control, and such Officer shall be bound to detain the moneys as directed and to pay the same, if so directed by Government, to the account opened as aforesaid with the Bank of Bombay, or such other Bank as aforesaid.

IV. The Municipal Commissioner shall in the month of January in each year publish an account showing the balance due to the Government of India by the Corporation of the Justices of the Peace for the City of Bombay on the 31st December preceding.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In place of the provisions of Bill No. 5 of 1868 (passed by the Governor of Bombay on the 8th February last) to empower the Corporation of the Justices of the Peace for the City of Bombay to raise a loan for temporary purposes, the Government of India has proposed to advance the sum of Fifteen Lakhs of Rupees to the Municipality, on condition of provision being made by legal enactment for the repayment of the loan within ten years. The present Bill is to provide for such repayment.

A SUGGESTION FOR THE G. I. P. RAILWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

Sir,—I hear the new Traffic Manager of the G. I. P. Railway is a most obliging gentleman. May I therefore venture to ask him through your columns to have compassion on those whose wives and families are residing at Matheran, and put on an early Monday morning train from Narel, say, to leave at 8 and arrive at Boree Bunder at 10 A.M., and allow return tickets to be available from Saturday to Monday? At present the train does not leave Narel until noon on Monday, which necessitates a ride down the Ghauts in the middle of the day, only to arrive in Bombay too late for office.

As the trains run now, it is really very sharp practice to go up on Saturday afternoon and come back on Sunday, which those engaged in office are compelled to do. I have done it, and the necessary rapid journey up and down the hills enables me to subscribe myself

CHARGE OF DEFAMATION AGAINST A PARSEE DOCTOR.

In the Fort Police Court, before the Acting Chief Magistrate, on Wednesday morning, Mr. Pestonjee Dadabhoy Wadia, liquidator of the Grand Financé Company, appeared on a summons by Dr. Rustomjee Jamsetjee Nadirshaw for defamation of character.

Dr. Barton, instructed by Mr. Thacker, appeared for the complainant, and Mr. Farran, instructed by Messrs. Ardeshir and Prentis & Co., for the defendant.

The case was opened by Dr. Barton, who briefly stated the circumstances as they will be seen in the report of the evidence. The learned counsel suggested that an amicable settlement would be the most satisfactory mode of disposing of the case, but Mr. Farran replied that what his client had stated he believed to be truth; and so Dr. Barton proceeded with his case.

Rustomjee Jamsetjee Nadirshaw, complainant, deposed—I am a Licentiate of the Bombay University, I have charge of the Sanitarium at Colaba, and I am also in private practitioner as well. THE CHOITRO MELA—A SIGN OF PROGRESS.

Hindu festivals have heretofore been almost solely of a religious character, held in honour of one or other of the gods or goddesses of the Hindu Pantheon, and characterised by a strength of religious fervour bordering on fanaticism.

The New Year, observed by almost all nations as a time of social gatherings and public festivities is hardly noticed by the people of Bengal, except as an auspicious day for the merchant and tradesmen to open new accounts.

But there are not wanting signs of a better order of things; and one of the most prominent of these is the establishment of the "Choitro Mela," a festival held on the last day of the month Choitro, the closing day of the Bengali year, the third anniversary of which we propose briefly to notice.

The objects of this festival, as stated by its promoters, are to induce "feelings of healthy nationality among all classes of the community," to "promote works of national improvement by national agency," and to unite "for one common purpose different sections and classes of the Hindu community, fusing all discordant elements into one harmonious whole, and otherwise rendering them one in thought and action." These are high aspirations truly, and it is difficult to conceive how vast a change in Indian society their realisation would produce. But the promoters look even higher, and, while eschewing "the teacherous rocks of theological and political controversy," they "have every hope that the present national gathering becoming an institution of the country, Hindus of all denominations will learn to make their interests common, and having come to this stage of progress, their hearts will naturally yearn after a common religious faith." Be that as it may, no philanthropist can fail to rejoice at any signs of life and progress in a nation once in the front rank of learning and civilisation, but for centuries growing weaker in every point under the influence of a degraded and degrading system of idolatry.

But it is time we should describe some of the outward features of the instrumentality which is to "awaken the sleeping energies" of Hindu souls.

The last day of the month Choitro, corresponding with our 11th of April, fell this year on a Sunday, and thinking that without showing any irreverence for the [illegible] we might spend an hour or two profitably in seeing our native fellow-subjects enjoy a holiday, we [illegible]he dust and heat, and bent our course to the [illegible]a. The house and extensive grounds [illegible]as Belgatchia (on the Dum-Dum road) belonging to the estate of the late Aushootosh Dey, had been [illegible]or the purpose; and our first impression, after we [illegible]ded in making our way to the entrance through [illegible]owd of gharries which choked the approaches, was [illegible] regret at the ruin in which so fine an estate is [illegible]red to lie. The grounds are very extensive and [illegible] traces of having been laid out with considerable taste; but a few short years of neglect have sufficed to reduce them to a wilderness, while the large and handsome house has not been repaired since the last cyclone, and will in another year or two be in ruins. We asked the cause, and were told the "Hindu jointfamily!" and we could not but feel that the deserted halls and neglected grounds of Belgatchia—but too familiar in those characteristics to every resident in Bengal—might suggest that family unity was quite as necessary as national unity to the life and progress of the Hindu people.

No such feelings seemed to oppress the minds of the thousands of natives (chiefly respectably-dressed Hindus) who thronged the grounds, eagerly availing themselves of the amusements provided for them. Inside the house crowds were moving about inspecting the various specimens of native workmanship arranged, on temporary counters, round the rooms. Two or three rooms were almost entirely devoted to fancy needlework, performed by native ladies and at native female schools—much of it displaying both skill and perseverance. On the walls were some oil-paintings, very creditably executed by Bengali gentlemen; we noticed also a few admirable specimens of native wood-carving. One room was devoted to native musical instruments, of various [illegible] more singular than graceful. One table contained a collection of artificial fruits and vegetables admirably modelled in fair clay and coloured. So far as it went the collection was interesting, but it was far [illegible]n being what we hoped to have seen, and still [illegible] forward to on some future occasion—an Exhibi- [illegible] illustrative of the native industry of Bengal, and [illegible]sing specimens of the work of the people in every [illegible] of manufacture. This cannot be accomplished [illegible]great personal labour and expense, but we are [illegible]e "Exhibition Section" of the Committee [illegible]st until their object is fully attained.

[illegible] but the grounds were other tents, all crowd- [illegible]es, in some of which juggling and con- [illegible] were performed; while, in others, natives [illegible]oursed sweet music to the apparent de- [illegible]eners. But the strongest attraction ap- [illegible] amusements under the "Physical Edu- [illegible] the object of which shall be (says the [illegible] bring out in the gathering men dis- [illegible]mnasts, athletes, and acrobats, and [illegible]tice of bodily exercises among the [illegible]duce generally among them habits [illegible], and activity." MAIN'S "PATENT" CONTINUOUS BAR FENCING.

This Fence is now universally admitted to be the best and most secure that can be adopted; and from its great durability, and the facility with which it can be erected or removed is in the end the cheapest.

As compared with a Wire Fence its advantages are—

1st. Its greater strength and weight. The Horizontal Bars long stronger and heavier than Wires, the "Continuous ...r Fencing" is not so easily injured; and what is of great importance, it is impervious to animals, and thus saves the animals running against the Fence are, in general, prevented

2nd. No stones are required, and therefore a "Continuous ... Fence" can be erected more quickly, without breaking up the ground, and by ordinary labourers.

3rd. No "Stays" or other "Extras" for curves are required.

KINLOCH and ALLAN, having been appointed Sole Agents for Messrs. A. and J. Main & Co., are now prepared to give quotations for the above, as also for Wire Fencing, Wire Netting, Ornamental Gates, Railings &c., &c.

The following is but one amongst hundreds of testimonials that might be cited.

Pwllheli, Carnarvonshire, 9th June, 1863.

SIRS.—I have the great pleasure to assure you that I find your statements as to the capacity of the instrument very much under the real performance both astronomically and terrestrially. I have had very capital views of Jupiter with its moons, immersing and emersing, and also the belts; Saturn with two of its moons, its ring, and the shadow thereof thrown, very well defined upon the body of the planet. I have also resolved several double stars most beautifully, with their different colours. The mountains in the moon I can see as plainly and distinctly in also relieve as those of Carnarvonshire. With the day opposite I have seen a woman at a distance of three miles knitting her stocking. I could see the woollen thread and her needles playing as plainly as if she had been only six or seven yards distant.—I am, Gentlemen, yours respectfully,

W. O. WILLIAMS, Presbyterian Minister.

FITZROY POCKET WEATHER GLASS, Rs. 28—With Compass and thermometer. This little instrument packs into a case measuring 7 inches by 2 inches—the testimonials as to its efficiency are numerous and highly satisfactory. One only is cited—From Thomas Mackereth, Esq., F.R.A.S., F.M.S., Eccles Observatory.

GENTLEMEN,—I must say that the action of the little Instrument is quite equal to that of the barometer, and for ordinary purposes as faithful in its records. Such an Instrument will be a very useful companion to a traveller or excursionist who takes pleasure in measuring the height of mountains, &c. The accompanying comparisons with the standard reading will abundantly testify what I have recorded.

We respectfully solicit the commands of MESSES, GENERAL MERCHANTS, and EUROPEAN RESIDENTS of WESTERN INDIA, to whom from the extensive nature of our business, we can offer better terms than any other House in Bombay. Being importers on the London and Bordeaux Markets and having direct contracts with growers of Champagnes, Sherries, German Wines and Ports, who make up our Wines under our own supervision; we are in the best possible position to offer liberal terms to every class of consumers, whose tastes we have; from our experience of upwards of 50 years exclusive trading in Wines, Spirits, been enabled to arrive at with certainty.

We subjoin our LIST OF SELECTED WINES for this market, and beg to intimate:—

1st. That we cannot execute orders for less than 1 dozen quarts, or 2 dozen pints of either one of them, Liqueurs excepted: these in not less quantities than ½ dozen pints or quarts.

2nd. That our Wines and Spirits are procurable from every respectable General Shopkeeper in Bombay and at Out-stations; they, however, fix their own selling prices for them.

3rd. That our quotations are for delivery from our Godowns, and that we do not take the risk of subsequent breakage. Nor can we undertake to deliver Wines, &c. in Bombay.

4th. That our quotations for all Sparkling Wines do not provide for examination of original packed Cases or for the rejection of ullaged or broken bottles likely to be found in such Cases, on arrival, after a long sea voyage. We guarantee each Case to contain its full complement of sound Bottles at time of shipment, but at our prices cannot provide for atmospheric or climatic influences; if our constituents wish us to take this risk, which affects sparkling wine more than any other, we can only do so by adding Rs. 4 per dozen quarts, and Rs. 2½ per dozen pints to our quotations.
